Logo

The logo for Connex contains circles with several connections, along with the accompanying text. The most primary version of the logo is the connecting circles in a color gradient and the text in black. Using the different colors in the gradient the logo can be changed in its original form to the alternate colors shown.

Alternate options for the logo can be just the connecting circles in its gradient colors or in black or white. If the logo is set to a darker background the logo can be changed to white. Although there are a lot of alternate options for the logo, it can never be used with only the 'Connex' text since it is not recognizable.

Use of Logo

There are a few rules regarding the use of the logo. It can be used for commercial use for the company and in any form that strengthens and promotes Connex. The rules that do apply for the logo can be shown in the featured illustration.

The primary logo's text can only be in black or white, and the connecting circles (if not in gradient) cannot be in a different color than the text. The logo must always be positioned in a straight line and never flipped or turned. When only using the connecting circles the gradient has to go from pink to blue and never in reverse. The circles should never be filled and only show the outlines.

If the logo is positioned against a colored background then the logo cannot be in color, only in black or white.

Typography

Connex uses only one font for both heading and body text. It is the only font used for both print and digital.

The font used is called Avenir and can be used in multiple cuts. For headlines it should foremost be used in book och light. Avenir Book and Avenir Light Oblique can be used for subheadings.

For the body text all the different cuts available can be used to label words and sentences so they stick out; such as Avenir Light Oblique and Avenir Black.

Graphical Element

The gradient color using our pink and blue colors can be used as a notable graphical element. Using the gradient to improve different elements and backgrounds can enhance the content in all sorts of graphical material. The gradient can be used in reverse for comprehension purposes as the blue color often represents companies and the pink color represents professionals.

Use

The colors that are used are described under the chapter called Colors, all of them do not have to be used at the same time. Using these strong colors, standard colors such as grey, white or black are preferred.

The graphical element can be used in different ways and it is allowed to create own elements and layouts as long as the colors are included.

Placement of text depends on what information should be highlighted, therefore own judgement can be made as long as an hierarchical grid is considered.

The Connex logo should always be included in all material. Its placement should be clearly visible and in contrast to the background.

Final Words

Connex strives to be a recognizable brand using this graphic profile as support. With a detailed graphic profile the company can easily created new graphic material produced in both printed and digital material.
